Freshman Orientation:

Davidson Welcomes the Class of 2002

Homecoming 1998

Homecoming is a Davidson tradition. It normally entails the return of many alumni, lots of parties and athletic events. This year's homecoming occurred on a beautiful October day. The half time festivities were sponsored by P.C.C. and Alumni Relations. Conner Eldridge, P.C.C. president, and Leslie McIver, Alumni Association President, presented all the nominees for king and queen. All fraternities and eating houses were represented, as well as the BSC, Independents, and ISA. The king and queen were Chris Tuttle and Grace Robinson, both representing Rusk. The first runner-ups were Max Nelson for Warner Hall and Rhina Roberts for the BSC. The second runner-ups were Drew Lindsey for Connor and Anna Fenton-Hathaway for Turner. The day was a great success that was capped off by a win for the football team against Randolph-Macon.

Parent's Weekend and Fall Convocation

Do you remember being in kindergarten? Didn't you hate to take naps? Wouldn't it be great if our professors would make us take naps in class?

It's funny, because the same kind of thing happens with our parents. Freshman year of high school is so embarrassing because your mom has to drop you off in front of all the older kids. But now that we are in college, we wait with restless anticipation for parent's weekend. Is it that we want to get a first class dinner out of them, because they are "so proud" of us? That might be one reason, but coming to this age we all realize how important our parents actually are in our lives.

I remember someone asking me if my mom was coming for the occasion and I said, "Yeah, she is. I can't wait!" Their reply? "I am so jealous. Everybody's parents are coming but mine!" There is just something about showing your parents how well you have done for yourself.

Not only do our parents love seeing what we have accomplished-- we enjoy having them around. How weird is it that when something is taken away from you, you always want it back. We take our families for granted, and we love seeing them for a weekend. It's very sad when the time is over. We say our good-byes, "Can't wait 'till Christmas!" But Christmas break lasts almost a month, and we all know how long a month seems when our parents are around.

Parent's weekend is a great time at Davidson to remember the importance of our families, but thank goodness it lasts for a weekend. Any longer than that and we start to forget. --Phillip Stewart

Christmas at Davidson

Right: Molly Lassiter and Dave Buehler come as Dasher and Dancer.

Above: Erin Smith, Cat Kizer, Sarah Brautigam, AK Clemmons, and Gina Mooney drink apple cider and burn candles to get into the Christmas spirit.

On December first, Davidson decked Chambers once again with ropes as study-weary students waited for Santa and Mrs. Claus to make their yearly rappel down the front of the college's main building. For a short while, students left vision of chemistry equations and math problems dancing in the library and mingled in the light of hundreds of candles. Although many were not fooled by the Common's attempt to pass hot apple juice off as apple cider, the spirit of Christmas could be seen across Chambers' lawn in the smiles of everyone.

After students read the story of Christmas, the choir lead the student body in a series of classic Christmas carols. Santa and Mrs. Claus successfully descended to the music, jumped into their golf-cart sleigh, and tossed treats to the crowd while eight tiny freshman elves scampered throughout the gathered students.

Basked in candlelight, the crowd peacefully sang "Silent Night," and the two large pines in front of Chambers came alive with lights as the crowd burst into a cheerful rendition of "Joy to the World." The annual tree lighting ceremony again proved a merry opportunity for students and faculty to leave their work behind and kick off the Christmas season.

Ada Jenkins Community Center

Davidson students have always fostered close relationships with the community through service work. Nowhere is this bond stronger, or more evident, than at the Ada Jenkins Community Center. This past year over a hundred students gave their time and energy to support the Davidson community through Ada Jenkins.

Freshmen spent their service component of orientation putting tables together for the after school program, painting community bicycles, cleaning out the basement, and doing some touch-up painting in the classrooms.

Fifty students volunteered each semester with the after school program. These dedicated students spent four hours each week tutoring children from Davidson Elementary School. Tutors at the after school program were the green berets of volunteers with the difficult task of getting kids, who want to be outside playing, to sit down and do homework.

Volunteers who worked with the Senior Nutrition Center served lunch to elderly community members in exchange for good, or at least old, stories.

The Davidson Youth Activities Committee provided a safe place for young teens to have fun and hang out. Davidson students served as role models and friends.

The recently created Middle School Tutoring Program offered help to middle school students in the area in a study hall atmosphere.

Davidson students helped with schoolwork and answered any questions the children had.

The Parish Nurse program provided home visits to individuals in the area who were either restricted to their homes or could not afford a doctor visit.

Several students gave follow up services and assisted Beth Blevins, the Parish Nurse.

Free Law services were also offered at Ada Jenkins. Students were trained to teach others how to represent themselves in cases such as wrongful eviction.

GLORIA STEINEM

On Thursday, October 22, Gloria Steinem, the 1998 Reynolds' Lecturer, spoke to a sold-out audience at Love Auditorium. Her lecture addressed "The Politics of Sexuality."

Steinem talked about the general population's trouble with the word feminism, saying that "at the same time, we do and don't know what it means." She cited the definition of feminism from a dictionary: "The belief in the full social, political and economic equality of men and women." Steinem explained feminism as a term whose principles many might agree with, but still have trouble identifying with, due to society's preconceptions of what feminism is. The women's movement, she feels, has made progress, but still has far to go as she said, "Any real justice movement must have at least 100 years to make a real mark."

Steinem explained that the patriarchal structure has gotten men hooked on the idea that they need to have dominance over others in their lives. Stressing the importance of individualism over grouping by gender, Steinem stated, "We are all human. The difference between two men or two women may be more than the difference between men and women as groups."

Steinem is a writer, editor, lecturer, social activist, and world-renowned leader of the modern feminist movement. She serves as a writer and consulting editor for Ms. Magazine, which she co-founded in 1972. She has also written several books and has co-produced an Emmy award-winning TV documentary and a made-for-TV movie. The Women's Action Alliance, the National Women's Political Caucus, and the Coalition of Labor Union Women were all founded in part by Steinem's efforts. Steinem was inducted into the Women's Hall of Fame in 1993.

Her visit coincided with both the celebration week of twenty-five years of coeducation at Davidson and with President Vagt's recent approval of the Gender Resource Center. —excerpted from Laura McCandlish's October 27th article in The Davidsonian.

Turner House

Nineteen ninety-nine was the first year that freshmen were able to self-select into Turner House. This is Davidson's fourth eating house located across the street from Kappa Sig. The house was named after Catherine Turner, a Davidson graduate who now works at the Ada Jenkins Community Center. With the increasing number of girls wishing to join an eating house, some women of Davidson College decided to start a fourth eating house. Upperclassmen first selected into Turner in January of nineteen ninety-eight. The organization of the house continued throughout the semester and over the summer and came to a culmination in October at the ribbon-cutting ceremony. Before this, the women of Turner ate at the Union Outpost while they shared a cook with Kappa Sig. Turner House undertook its first big service project by organizing the Winter Wonderland for children at the Ada Jenkins Community Center this fall where proceeds went to the after school program held there. The Turner frogs are a great new addition to Davidson's Patterson Court.

The Beautiful Davidson Delilahs

In their inaugural year, the Delilahs have wasted no time in establishing themselves as an impressive and entertaining women's acapella group. Since their formation in the spring of 1998, these ladies have given numerous concerts for students, faculty and even our friends at The Pines. Their repertoire ranges from Madonna and The Fugees all the way to Mendelssohn and The Shirelles. As Davidson's first female acapella group, The Delilahs have brought gender equity to the college's acapella population joining their relatively new male counterpart, The Generals. Now that The Delilahs have graced our campus with their presence, the next few years should cement a growing tradition for fun, talented and beautiful Davidson women to sing their hearts out. The Delilahs love to sing and dance- don't miss their next performance!

"Another turning point, a fork stuck in the road. Time grabs you by the wrist, directs you where to go. So make the best of this test and don't ask why. It's not a question but a lesson learned in time. It's something unpredictable, but in the end is right. I hope you had the time of your life. So take the photographs and still frames in your mind. Hang it on a shelf of good health and good times.... For what it's worth it was worth all the while. I hope you had the time of your life."

-Greenday

ope You Had the Time of Your Life

Four years ago we all chose a road-- a road that led to Davidson. We all had different reasons for choosing this road, different hopes and dreams about where this road would take us, but by choosing this particular road, we all joined in a common journey.

Do you remember the first time you stepped on this campus? Did you ever think that it would turn out this way? That this sea of strange faces might become as familiar as your own hand? That the girl sitting across from you in orientation might one day be your best friend? Or that all these brick buildings and brick walkways and huge trees- that one day you might think of this as home? Did you ever think that you could change, grow, learn, laugh, cry, live, or love so much?

Our common road has led to common bonds, and memories, good friends and a strong foundation on which to place our futures. As our time here comes to an end, it is important to remember the friends, the lessons, and the moments. Many of us will take new roads now, to find our place in the "real world". Where will your road take you?

It has been a wonderful trip. Let us always celebrate the memories and the times that we shared on our journey through Davidson.

"Go confidently in the direction of your dreams! Live the life you've always imagined." -Thoreau

As I reflect back on this four year journey, I am fascinated with the transformations that many of us have experienced here at Davidson. I am convinced that we have all changed for the better in some way and we owe that to the environment that Davidson has leased to us for four years. Davidson, unlike most other places, has provided us with so many opportunities to grow and discover who we are and what we are here for. It would be easy for many of us to complain about the GPAs we will graduate with or how we could have done twice as better with half the amount of work at other schools, but that does no good. You need to look at the priceless goods that you are leaving this institution with after four years. They easily outweigh a mediocre GPA or having to study 10 hours for a routine exam. Think of the great friends you have made over the years and how you have grown and changed together. Think of the new hobbies and interests that you have acquired. We have learned the value of hard work and how to endure through adverse conditions at times. We have obtained new meanings of what honor and integrity are. We have become better people who will impact society in positive ways.

Some of us may have mixed emotions about our plans for next year. We will be thrown into new theaters with new characters and new story lines. The show is by no means over, my friends. We are merely changing the set before the next act begins. And unlike previous acts in which the results were pre-ordained, we control the rest of the show now.

You are the conductor of a high powered locomotive that will ramble down the tracks in whatever direction you please. It is all right if you don't know where the train is headed right now. You can steer it in any direction and see how you like the route. It is never too late to change the direction of the train. Just make sure the train is never dormant and is always moving regardless of whether it has a definite destination.

Instincts and heart are crucial elements in the decision making process. It is quite simple though because all you have to do is follow them. Don't be worried about immediate compensation and immediate status. Find something you love to, do it with all your heart and success will come.

Keep on rockin' and rollin'!

Rockin' and Rollin':Max Nelson and Mike Harrington take some time to relax.

Martin Court: Life in the Senior Apartments

-Emily Eagan

Life in the Senior Apartments is not something that can be described readily in a yearbook article. Unfortunately for me, my friends have threatened to kill me if I don't try. Though I am unemployed at the moment, death doesn't sound all that exciting, so here goes: Wow. They gave us our own apartments and told us to start living like adults. No problem. It's JUST like the real world, I promise. I am sure that in the real world I will frequently see huge parties on people's porches where the primary activity is to throw furniture and watch it break. I'm sure that everyone has eight cases of beer in their refrigerator at all times. Oh, and people in the real world never use keys. No, they always have these outdated button things that never work on their doors.

I love living in the apartments because all of my friends are down here too. It's cool to "go somewhere" to visit, not just walk down the hall. Yet Senior slackness shines through even when you are visiting friends. I love going over to someone else's apartment because mine is boring only to find that they are watching TV, too. There are very few activities that take place within a Senior apartment. TV watching is certainly one, but then there is drinking on the front porch, bouncing off of furniture in a fit of Davidson-induced psychosis, throwing things (guys only), singing along to the stereo (girls only), making pasta for the 97th time, and various others that I can't really go into. Of course my favorite thing about the apartments is 5:30 am fire drills. Awww, yeah! Everyone in their natural state, bleary-eyed and shivering in the rain (it always seems to be raining during fire drills). It's always interesting to see who comes out of the building: "Wait, I thought he was a Sophomore!"

All in all, the apartments rule. Hopefully I have given a few reasons why I think so, but there are so many more. Everyone's memories of Senior Apartments will be different, but I hope everyone would agree that it has been quite a year. Living in Martin Court is one of those Davidson experiences (like seeing pledges run naked on Self-Selection night) that is difficult to describe, but impossible to do without.

Oh, It's Ladies Night...

Hello ladies of Davidson College, please dress up and show us your favorite Madonna look for Madonnarama. Oh what a night-girls everywhere looking like their favorite Madonna video. Everything from the "Material Girl" ball gown to the "Like a Prayer" lingerie to the "Ray of Light" earth mother style was present. It was a night that no one will forget, but a few may want to burn their outfits.

Madonna was all over campus in her "Vogue" cones and her "Like a Virgin" cross, and no one could have missed the theme of this party. There are many other parties on campus where dressing up is required. Theme parties are the most fun because the more outrageous the outfit, the better the party becomes. Davidson students like to leave behind their old preppy clothes and enter a new world of fashion.

As the year goes on, more and more people will stretch the limits of their imagination and create great outfits for Pimp and Ho, Glamrock, Black Light Beach Party, Tacky Party, Toga Party, 70s Party, and many others. These are just a few events where Davidson students leave behind the J. Crew catalog and enter a new realm of fashion!

The Big 21!

Take a walk on the wild side...

So, you're finally 21! Now you can legally buy alcohol and party in the basement. How does it feel? You can escape the dreaded underfreshmen by running downstairs and hiding. You can abandon your friends who are unfortunate and young. You can now hang out with the older kids at Davidson. You can complain about running beers up and down the stairs while being accosted by younger kids.

Do you even remember your birthday- a bunch of friends, a few drinks, and maybe you even prayed to the ceramic gods. Ah, the things you try to forget but never can. These are the memories that will never be forgotten. These are the friends that will be with you forever. Celebrate this time while you can.

The 21st birthday is a huge event in a Davidson student's college career. You can now go to 21-year-old night, buy fun stuff at the ABC store, and become an adult where nothing is forbidden. Be careful not to get too caught up. Remember, you are an adult now. Good luck!

Above: Ginny Dye, Angie Boyer, and Natalie Stumpf celebrate their first beer after a long dry soccer season!

Junior Year Abroad

Kangaroos, Elephants, and the Queen?

After two years of living at Davidson, many Juniors decide to leave the comfort of the States behind and travel to new, exotic places around the world. Many Juniors leave their best friends behind for a semester of adventure and excitement. The Juniors that go abroad hit many new places and meet up with old friends. Germany, Kenya, Zimbabwe, China, Spain, England, Scotland, France, Australia, and Italy are just a few of the countries where our fellow Davidson classmates study.

A handshake with a kangaroo, a party with the elephants, and a picture in front of Buckingham palace are just a few of the stories we can share. We have learned about a new culture, studied a foreign language, and met many new people, but we will not forget our friends back home. We have so many stories to tell and new experiences to remember. Studying abroad is the most amazing experience, and we will never forget our time away from the Big "D." We are all excited about being together again in the senior apartments, but before that happens we need to find our way back home...

Hall Counselors

If I could turn back time...

If I could find a way, I'd relive freshman year. As crazy as it sounds to some, it's exactly what hall counselors do. Accurately describing the many roles of a Davidson hall counselor remains almost impossible. If you put an information desk, a police chief, a role model, a "Dear Abby" column, a friend, and half the energy in the world into one person, you still would not have everything it takes to face the challenge of a freshmen hall.

After completing my freshman year, I always thought it would be great to do it all over again knowing what I know now, and I have to tell you, it's been fabulous! Being a hall counselor means the fun of flickerball, mixers, and the Baker Olympics without the hassle of PE 101 or discovering the day-of that "review" really means "test." Observing my freshmen fine-tune email into the beautiful art of procrastination brought tears of nostalgia and pride to my eyes.

I didn't realize, however, that the night before freshman orientation would be my last sound sleep, that mixers don't plan themselves, or that crises aren't always conveniently scheduled. And the questions, questions, questions! Now I understand how a Jeopardy contestant feels. I still can't explain Internet installation procedures and do not know the exact time in seconds it requires to complete a work order.

Despite all the hardships, being a hall counselor has given me more laughs, smiles, entertainment, and joy than I could have imagined. My girls have become invaluable friends and are 34 of the best roommates anyone could ask for. Never have I used so much energy in one year, but if I could turn back time, I would definitely do it all over again.

Class of 2000

David M. Farrington

May 6, 1978- April 4, 1999

When David Michael Farrington passed away on Easter Sunday, a terrible blow was dealt to those who knew him well. Perhaps the greatest testimony to Dave's life can be seen in the impact he had on those around him. His passing reminds all of us of the fragility of life and the importance of good friends. We will remember the joy with which Dave lived his life, the uniquely brilliant mind with which he made sense out of the world, the vigor and determination with which he faced opposition, and the timely smile he used to comfort his less steady companions. As long as Dave is remembered, part of him will remain in this world. We miss and love you, Dave.

Sophomores Step Up

Whether it was on the court or in the Union, sophomores stepped up to take leadership roles. The Class of 2001 was represented on the SGA, the Union Board, Reach Out, the Davidsonian editorial board, the Honor Council, the Patterson Court Council, the Photography Club and numerous other organizations. Sophomores held the positions of SGA Vice-President, Quips & Cranks Editor-In-Chief and Turner House President. Helping to organize such events as Into the Streets, the Sustainable Campus Development Conference, and Multicultural Kids Day, sophomores improved their leadership and planning skills. The Class of 2001 also demonstrated responsibility through weekly commitments, such as the positions of Davidsonian news editors, op-ed editor, sports editor, and business managers, and chairing committees, such as the Rape Awareness Committee, the Environmental Action Committee, and Council on Minority Affairs. In addition, sophomores proved that they had big hearts through chairing Reach Out committees, including Habitat for Humanity and the Pines Fellowship. Through their activities, the sophomores proved they had the necessary leadership skills.

Trailblazing

The Odyssey - a wilderness adventure that is more fun than it looks. It is freshmen bonding at its very best. These students have gear for an entire week on their backs.

Terra Gill, Jamie Gilmore and Abby Johnson-Reid smile through the grease and grime as their Odyssey journey left them a few 100 many miles away from a shower.

Deep in the woods of North Carolina, the laughter of soon-to-be Davidson freshmen is heard. It's part of the Odyssey - a pre-orientation adventure created to allow incoming freshmen to become acquainted with their classmates and their new school. The trip includes three days of hiking along the Appalachian Trail, two days river canoeing, a service project and a day spent however they choose. Rain and poison ivy may prove temporary obstacles, but having seven new friends before orientation makes it all worthwhile. Wonderful friendships are born and the memories made will last forever.

Top Ten Reasons Why You Didn't Win the 1998 Freshmen Cake Race:

10. Confusing detours to get around all the campus construction got you lost.
9. The plastic orange fencing lining the sidewalk tripped you up.
8. Put on the wrong shoes.
7. Didn't put on shoes.
6. Since it was the only time you were allowed on the Court for the next two months, you decided to enjoy it.
5. Stopped by Ben & Jerry's for a Vermonster.
4. Didn't have enough bonus bucks to buy a Powerbar at the Union before the race.
3. That guy you tripped was President Vagt.

Flickerball

Somewhere between the NFL and the PeeWee leagues lies Flickerball, the Davidson intramural sport that is as much tradition as all-nighters. Flickerball was probably the brain-child of the kids who were always chosen last for pick-up football games. Since they couldn't play football, their bitterness led them to create a quirky little game that combines football with rugby and has rules that are impossible to understand. At any rate, Flickerball '98 was a great season, complete with refs in cowboy boots, some friendly trash talking, lots of ball-flicking and the occasional finger-flicking. Yes, flickerball was alive and well, and we novice freshmen quickly learned that it was more than your typical intramural. In fact, flickerball rivalries were quite intense, but they brought halls together quicker than any mixer ever did.

~Burgin Hardin

The proud, the few - the winners of Flickerball. These Fourth Rich champs say "Blitz" for the camera.

Sensitive men, Bjorn Wickstrom and Evan Andersen, study the necessary literature for Chick-a-nomics 101.

The women of Third Rich and their fearless flickerball coaches get pumped for an important game. They are formidable foes on the flickerball field.

It's going to be one wild night down at the court for these Freshmen as they spend a little time on 4th Cannon waiting for the parties to get started.

Theme Parties

Almost every weekend a Davidson freshmen can spend a night masquerading as someone else.

We fulfill these dress-up dreams at the plethora of theme parties on Patterson Court. Warner Hall has gained fame for its popular Madonna-Rama, and Sig Ep hosted a happening Halloween party this year. Jammed in among the khakis and plaid skirts in Davidson students' closets are a wide variety of theme party clothes. There is a type of fiesta for everyone from Kappa Sig's schoolgirl theme, to Connor's beach impromptu, to staying alive at PiKA's groovy 70's party. Transform yourself and enjoy the night while you can. It's back to work on Monday morning.

~Lindsey Vaala

"Transform yourself and enjoy the night while you can. It's back to work on Monday morning."

Cross-dressing tendencies are often hard to suppress, as shown by Denny Jones (aka Joanna Parker) at Sig Ep's Halloween Costume Bash.

“ Theme parties give you the chance to fulfill your wildest dreams and be whoever you want for one night. ”

Brad "Trashy" Stevinson and Rj "Dirty Elmo" Smith sport their oh-so-lovely costumes. Brad eases Rj's tension by giving him a hand.

Life is a mystery ... but it's no mystery where these material girls from 1st West Belk are headed ... Madonna-Rama!

Carrie Badertscher, Janyne Pleasants and Beth Jenkins are comfortably outfitted in their slumber duds. They are off to break it down and get acquainted with their new classmates at the beginning-of-school pajama mixer.

Getting Acquainted

Patterson Court was officially off-limits for freshmen during the first month of school. The hope was that we would spend the time bonding among ourselves. Consequently, our beloved hall counselors organized many a creative hall mixer. Ideas ranged from slip'n slide with chocolate sauce to dinners at Lotus 28 and everything in between. Two halls learned to salsa dance while they got acquainted while others opted to smear each other with cake. However messy the method, getting to know each other sure was fun.

Kari Gaare and Hannah Grimes sport the aftermath of a freshmen slip'n slide hall mixer.

Basement Belk and Third Little got down and dirty at an impromptu hall mixer after the Cake Race. Eat it or wear it!

Dressing Up

Jeff Cone exhibits an obviously powerful allure as a mariachi singer - neither Nathaniel Rogers nor Bjorn Wickstrom can resist him.

Lindsey Vaala, Sarah Gniadek, Cody Ruxton and Katie Osbolt are all snazzed up for the Rusk semi-formal. Evan Andersen is a lucky guy to be captured on film with these beauties.

The social life of a Davidson freshman was really quite hectic during first semester. In between hall mixers, theme parties and Homecoming there were four semi-formals to spice up one's life. Each one of the eating houses hosted a dance and created a theme for the evening. As a result, most of the pressure to find dates and organize dinner plans fell on the freshwomen. Three dances were held in the respective houses on the court, but Turner held something a little more original. Since Turner House was still undergoing its final stages of construction, its dance was held in a tent outside commons. Students danced the night away in the fresh October air under the stars.

Some halls opted to employ the "screw your roommate" technique, and have roommates set each other up on blind dates for a dance. Semi-formals proved yet another effective way to mingle with schoolmates.

Self-Selection

The cheers from the eating houses erupted as the female members, both new and old, witnessed a mob of naked, crazed guys run toward them over the hill. This special day started early for the freshmen as well as the rest of the campus, when the eating houses stormed the freshmen dorms to pluck their chosen few from warm beds. The guys, having already accepted bids at their preferred fraternities, began the celebration later that night. Self-Selection was not just an ordinary night of parties and full moons, but instead a starting point for the strong bonds and loyalties developed among social house members.

~Evan Andersen

Closing

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, or maybe it was just freshman year.

Having survived two semesters, papers, reviews and tons of stress, the members of the class of 2002 are ready to be sophomores. This first year has been filled with enormous amounts of work, plenty of new experiences and more fun than we could capture in the yearbook. The most important part, however, has been the life-long friendships we have developed. Not only will we be friends for three more years, but these ties will last forever.

Luckily, we have more time to keep meeting our fellow Wildcats and will help show the incoming classes behind us the ropes. Nathaniel and I have enjoyed our yearbook endeavors. We've had great fun sorting pictures and trying to figure out what is really happening in some of them. We have done our best to capture the significant events of the class of 2002's first year. Enjoy!

~Lindsey Vaala

But I saw it first! Evan Anderson and Kyle Erickson fight over a stuffed dog at Carowinds Amusement Park. The dog was a prize that big strong man Evan won in the "strong man contest."

Oh freshmen year, just think of all the great hall mixers, parties, and studying... no, wait-scratch that last part.

New Kids in the Dorm

Molly Shaw, Katie Brooks and Kelley Cantrell can attest to the fact that freshmen hall-mates can become life-long friends.

Margaret Dasher, Beth "the unicorn" Jenkins, Richard Wright and Carrie Frazier create an unlikely group of trick-or-treaters.

Snow in Davidson? Burgin Hardin and Jessica Bogo think that this is just too good to be true.

Snazzy Nathaniel Rogers, Graham Gravley, and John Zidow are all dressed up with no place to go but down, to the basement of Richardson that is.

Lookout! These Basement Belk Bruisers are out for blood in their upcoming flickerball showdown.

Beth Jenkins, Katie Osbolt, Mary Katherine Stickel and Sarah Gniadek finally navigated their way through the annual "Maize Maze."

Beach bums Rachel Smith, Melissa Johnson, Kyle Erickson, Tim Hughes, and Bjorn Wickstrom spent a sunny Spring Break down in Key West.

The crew team is where its at for the freshmen rowers. Jonathan Hill-Alto, Grant Bleacher, Alexander Morsink and Jeff Cone are so excited about the sport that they get up at 5 am.

Watch out Duke fans! These smiling, spirited freshmen are prepared to scream and cheer for their beloved Wildcats at the game in Charlotte.

SGA

This year the SGA was extremely active. The organization continued to support and run the Vamanos Van. All Senators were van-certified and the SGA was responsible for driving each Thursday night of the year. Perhaps our greatest achievements came in the area of increasing the awareness of the diversity of the Davidson College campus. In October, the SGA held a Race Forum in the Chambers Gallery that was attended by almost half the student body. Also, we worked tirelessly to convince the school to fully recognize Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Day. Another success came when the SGA was able to improve the state of the Union Cafe by facilitating the return of many of the students' favorite items. We also held the annual SGA day where the senators cooked hamburgers and hot dogs. The committees and councils were very active and gave students a way to get involved in campus affairs. Furthermore, we led the annual SGA Phone-A-Thon to raise money for the college. One final project that highlighted the year was the approval of the massive ATC budget. This year has been tremendous for the SGA and gave the organization a way to serve our friends, our college, and the Davidson community.

The Honor Council, led by Asa Hercules and Paul Eubanks, worked under a new committee system designed to meet the needs of the campus. The committees included Red Book Revision, Faculty Relations, Campus Forum and Publicity. Additionally, the Code's wording was significantly changed this year, and the Council has found this change helpful. The Council is constantly trying to educate the campus about the Code and works toward maintaining Davidson as an institution bound by honor.

The Honor Council: Thomas McElveen, Defense Advisor; John Bott, Defense Advisor; Bob Magnussen, Student Solicitor; Mauricio Sauma, Student Solicitor; Joslyn Odgen, Chair; Kara Barker, Secretary

Choir

Under the experienced baton of interim director David Tang, conductor of the Charlotte Oratorio Singers and associate conductor of the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra, the Davidson College Concert Choir and Chamber Singers had a productive season with a variety of unique opportunities. With Dr. Donna DiGrazia leaving the podium and Davidson for a position at Pomona College in California, Mr. Tang, graciously and energetically filled in during this transitional year for the choir while the music department held a national search for a permanent conductor.

Not only did the Concert Choir perform beautifully at the annual Christmas Vespers service, but only a few weeks into the semester demonstrated its talent and musicality at a Parents' Weekend concert, something new for the choir. The Spring program included a highly successful concert and a performance of Mahler's second symphony with the Charlotte Symphony Orchestra.

The Chamber Singers had their annual Fall Concert in November, performing both in Davidson College Presbyterian Church and in Charlotte. The program included a varied repertoire of styles and time periods from the Renaissance O Magnum Mysterium by Tomas Louis de Victoria, to the twentieth century, with an arrangement of Ev'ry Time I Feel the Spirit by Fenno Heath. In the spring, they joined with the Davidson College Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Dr. Richard Prior, to perform the Vivaldi Gloria in DCPG.

Orchestra

The Davidson College Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Richard Prior, is one of the principal campus ensembles. Now in its fifth season, the symphony consists of sixty students and faculty drawn from all disciplines. The orchestra occasionally invites the participation of community members and high school students. Rehearsing twice a week, the symphony presents several concerts each semester on campus and in the surrounding community. Two major performances have been in Charlotte, one to benefit the American Cancer Society. The symphony's repertoire ranges from the Baroque to the twentieth-century, including major works such as Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Copland's Appalachian Spring. Providing a platform for student and professional musicians, the symphony often presents concertos, which in the fifth season included Shostakovich Piano Concerto No. 1 with Cynthia Lawing and Dr. William Lawing in the fall. In the spring, the symphony performed the Lalo Cello Concerto in D minor with the second DCSO Concerto Competition winner, Lauren Baird. In addition, two DCSO concerts have been broadcasted on WDAV. Showcasing student talent and providing the community with symphonic music, the Davidson College Symphony Orchestra continues to enrich life at Davidson.

Pep Band

When this year's seniors were freshmen, the Pep Band had fallen out of existence. Do a little dance and stand up and shout, 'cause WE'RE BACK! For the second year in a row, the Pep Band has filled Belk Arena with the sounds of the fight song, "Call Me Al" and "Zoot Suit Riot" at men's and women's basketball games. We also packed up and went to Charlotte for the Duke game and Greensboro for the Southern Conference Tournament. Open to anyone who can find their old horn and still blow, we hope to see our numbers grow. Good luck to both teams next year—we're ready to go back to the Big Dance. Thanks to the Fast Break Club for all the support. And thanks to our high school players: Britt, Ginger, Gayle, Jason, Steve, Dan and Micheal—we couldn't have done it without you.

Reach Out

This year Davidson students gave up afternoons to tutor at Ada Jenkins, woke up Saturday mornings to build Habitat houses, and braved the rain to raise money for CROP Walk. In all, twenty different Reach Out programs kept us busy doing good deeds in Davidson and the surrounding community.

ISA

One of the more colorful niches of diversity at Davidson, the International Students Association serves both campus and community, enticing them to awareness of the world's cultural riches through an exotic smattering of presentations and festivals. The fall semester opened with the International Festival, aromas of biryani and jollif rice wafting through the Union as internationals offered local dishes for people to savor as they browsed kiosks of each nation represented by ISA, feasting their eyes on displays of flags, textiles and artwork. Chinese New Year of the Rabbit was ushered in in grand style with an aesthetically-pleasing and often hilarious lion dance in front of Chambers, which was followed by a martial arts exhibition and a catered presentation on Chinese culture. Holi, a Hindu festival of colors, met with an enthusiastic response for its novelty, (never before having been seen at Davidson) and racousness. ISA helped to organize Multicultural Kids Day, an arts & crafts version of the International Festival for children, as well as adding an international to the the Women's Issues Month in its poster series and lunchtime quiz. Indeed, ISA brought the world to Davidson.

Established in the spring of 1998, the Organization of Latin American Students works to heighten awareness of the international news events, cultural holidays, and native customs that are integral in exerting Hispanic presence on our college campus. We have sponsored Latino dance workshops and brought El Sazon, a combo band, to campus several times. During May, students can relieve stress from exams at our Cinco de Mayo study break. This fall we were all amazed to see how beautifully the celebration of Dia de los Muertos turned out. Hispanic history is recognized during the month of October and OLAS created a bulletin board to promote education about famous Latin Americans. We are trying to shift emphasis to the community by volunteering our time in day care, translation work and other projects that allow students to act as bridges between English speakers and Spanish speakers.

The founding board of officers last year included Mauricio Sauma as President, Marie Sharp as Vice-President, Magdalena Barbosa as secretary, and Agatha Degasper as treasurer. This year the officers are Sarah Roberson, Alex Obregon, Ina Spachar and Brent Wilson. The name OLAS was chosen because the acronym appropriately means "waves" in the Spanish language. We are proud to announce that we have helped West Charlotte High School establish their own branch of OLAS. We chartered this chapter because we saw a great need for an organization providing support to the many Hispanic students who attend high school in our area. Although there may be confusion due to the specific nature of our organization's name, students from any nationality may join as long as achieving an understanding of the Hispanic culture is an important aspect of their college education.--Sarah Roberson

Catholic Campus Ministries

Catholic Campus Ministries has grown this year with the help of our new Campus Minister, Barb Bagnall. We celebrate Mass every week with Father Bob and Father Kerrin. We have Renew each week which includes Barb's wonderful cooking and a discussion or meditation after dinner. Several students have participated in retreats this year. We also had our own retreat at a cabin in the woods.

Sanctuary/ Eumenean Literary Society

Sanctuary is a Christian fellowship that focuses on faith and service. Sanctuary sponsors events such as Room in the Inn and the Alternative Gift Fair. The organization also meets every week to hear speakers or to study scripture.

Sanctuary members: Jody Moore, Ben Covington, Janice Baker, Adam Sanders, Sarah Davis, Cader Howard, Claire Camp, Michelle Markey

Founded on April 14, 1837, before classes first convened, the Eumenean Literary Society continues to foster the acquisition of literary knowledge, the promotion of virtue, and the cultivation of social harmony and friendship at Davidson College. In the past year, the Society has grown as students have been invited to membership and initiated according to its traditions. Of course, guests were always welcome at the regular meetings in hall to discuss readings on a broad range of topics including Scripture as Literature, Agony and Ecstasy, Compelling Female Characters, the Darker Passions, Expressions of Faith, and Original Works. To these meetings, those in attendance brought passages appropriate to the topic as well as enthusiasm to discuss the selections chosen by others in a convivial atmosphere. Although the historic and amicable rivalry with the Philanthropic Society continues, it did not precipitate any duels.

Ultimate Frisbee Service Council

The Ultimate Frisbee Club team is in its maturing phase and is steadily improving. This year we played in many tournaments with the colleges that are in the surrounding area. We also made our first trip to Sectionals this year, which is a step in the direction of moving to a national powerhouse.

The team had many returning players that helped the incoming players adapt to the lifestyle here and more importantly, how to play frisbee! These people include some of the stars soon to be seen on the national circuit: Geoff 'the Buffalo' Evans, Andy 'El Commandante' Rhodes, Joe 'the Supreme' Slember, Caddy 'Head Guy' Coddington and many more. The freshpeople, or whatever we call them now, enjoyed the games, tournaments and especially the socks. We hope next year to maintain our current level of play and perhaps even become a threat here in the state of North Carolina.

Bottom: The Ultimate Frisbee Team before a home tourney.

The Service Council successfully completed its first full year under the leadership of Jill Williams and Brian Campbell. The Council worked to increase communication among service groups on campus, and scheduled innovative programs designed to address many of the challenges that students involved with service at Davidson face. The Council looks forward to facing new challenges and further promoting meaningful service in the years to come.

Photography Club

DIFA/ Pre-Med & AED

As a relatively new organization on the Davidson campus, the Davidson Photography Club has focused on its mission statement this year. The club is dedicated to increasing awareness of photography as an art form. To achieve its goals, the Photography Club has made a presence for itself within the Davidson area by exhibiting in the college union, sponsoring activities on campus and covering events on campus such as the Lunar Luau, the Day of the Dead and Multicultural Kids Day.

Plans for the spring semester materialized in the form of Women's Month in March, which highlighted respected women in the Davidson community and teaching more people about photography. Other activities included outings to Mooresville, a DO trip to explore nature photography, and sponsoring a day to restore photographs belonging to community members. The officers of the Photography Club are Matt Clifford, Christa Wagner, Matt West, Amber Worrell and Maryann Loman.

This year saw the start of a new group on campus, the Davidson Investment and Finance Association (DIFA). The club was founded for the purpose of educating students about investing and analyzing the stock market. Taking their cue from similar organizations at Washington and Lee, Notre Dame, and UNCC, the club keeps Davidson competitive as more schools seek to give their undergraduates an exposure to real world finances and investing beyond the theoretical realm of economic courses. The club was granted $200,000 by the Board of Trustees in October. The roughly thirty student members of DIFA meet weekly to present their research, debate the merits of various companies, and vote on stocks to buy and sell. The group is aided by the talents of faculty advisor Clark Ross and administrative liaison Burton Hudson, from Davidson College's Business and Finance Office. New members are always welcome; it's never too early to start learning about how to invest, the best way to safeguard your future.

Pi Kappa Alpha

There are a lot of great four-letter words, but it all comes down to FRAT. Although many have tarnished the word "frat" with their antics and shenanigans, we take pride in upholding the high ideals of Greek Manhood. Our ancient Greek forefathers taught us that physical fitness and high endurance in the face of strife are of chief importance. Although our mascara ran in the sweltering month of August, with dehydrated bodies and blurred vision we redefined flickerball and wiffleball without breaking a single heel. We are proud of our six-packs. As any aspiring Greek knows, "men of action seek a life of virtue." Despite losing the intellectual leadership of the stalwart Vince Diamond and the perennial Chazz Victory, our overall GPA did not fall below a 3.9. We maintained impeccable taste in music, served only the finest malt beverages, and by providing shelter for the Davidson community we led the campus in service. Inspired by Dionysus, the god of Thunderbird, we applied our high ideals to the realm of true Greek assembly. With our shirts off and our brothers crowded around the foosball table, we entertained honey from many different nations. Thanks to the lengthy search by Brother Toto, we once again ensured that our dreamgirl was the dreamiest. The beautiful Davidson babes may not admit to loving us, but we all know they're just playing hard to get. A true Greek man must persevere. After such successful soirees as Glam Rock, Senior Champagne Party, 70's Party, and the going-away dance for Anything for Money, small house repairs were necessary. Using funds from our black-market organ sales, we refurbished the house with a Jacuzzi, Jai Alai court, and diving board on the roof (pool to be added later). In short, we have assembled the most perfect group of beer-swilling ne'er-do-wells ever bound by fraternal love. No one has done more to set the standards of virtue than we have. Quoting Aristotle, we have "redefined the art of living and imitated it." Aristotle was not a PiKA, but wanted to be very, very badly. As we go "motorin'" into the new millenium, we invite all warriors, freebirds, and questionable characters to share our wine and cheese, and enjoy the ride. We truly live the ancient Greek creed: "It is better to burn out than fade." Just maintainin' and swervulatin'--DFWB

Connor House

The women of Connor gathered together for yet another year of scholarship, service, and fun. They expressed their diverse talents through participation in student government, theater, music, athletics, and many other campus organizations. Whether serving as hall counselors or tutoring local students, Connor women demonstrated their continuing commitment to this campus and to the surrounding community. Service projects this year included working at Ada Jenkins and volunteering in Charlotte's hospitals, as well as building homes with Habitat for Humanity. Receiving the Patterson Court Scholarship Award this fall, Connor women proved once again that Davidson Students can work hard and still have a great time.

Among the social highlights of the fall semester were a "Twilight Zone" semi-formal, a comedian Crush Party, and the annual Ladies' Lock-In. During the spring semester, Connor welcomed a new group of women to the court with a wild Self-Selection celebration. House bonding continued as freshman met upperclassmen while watching ER each week. Screw Your Sister added to the fun, giving big and little sisters a chance to find the perfect date for each other. Formal proved to be the social high point of the semester once again, as Connor women danced the night away to their favorite music.

With this exciting year drawing to a close and preparations beginning for another, Connor must say good-bye to its graduating seniors. They will be greatly missed, and the members of Connor wish them all the best.

Phi Delta Theta

It has got to be the blacklights.

No one really understands the attraction, but late night at any house around the Court, when the DJ has spun the last record and the drummer has put down his sticks, everyone knows the night isn't really over. It's time for late night at Phi Delt. Even while on probation for the first half of the fall semester, Phi Delt logged more attendees at their impromptu parties than any other house on the Court. It could be, perhaps, the most entertaining fraternity of them all.

For no other fraternity offers such thrills as the famous "Airband" lipsynch contest, or its x-rated version, "Ladies' Night." They just don't come close. Toga party exhibited a raw display of brotherhood bonding, while the Blacklight Beach Party gave many the chance to escape to Margaritaville in mid-January, in a house heated to 90 degrees. And, in an earnest display of want for the diversification and religious education of Davidson College, the brothers changed the name of the annual "Christmas Cocktails" to "Hanukah Harvest."

Phi Delt continued their dedication to service and community with the organization of another successful golf tournament for the fight against Lou Gehrig's Disease.

Phi Delta Theta members are more than dedicated students of Davidson College, for members of varsity athletic teams comprise over half of the fraternity. But Phi Deltas are even more than athletes, they are the most spirited supporters of all other team - both men's and women's. Members of Phi Delt attended more athletic events than any other organization of Davidson College. The most notable fan contribution came in the Spring, when Phi Deltas were found in the right field of every baseball game, tirelessly heckling the opponent.

So no one can really explain the attraction to blacklights and Phi Delt. But they go hand in hand, just as a good time does with the exceptional brothers of Phi Delta Theta.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The true gentlemen of Sigma Alpha Epsilon had an exceptional year in all aspects of life at Davidson College. Beginning in the summer, the committed brothers demonstrated their philanthropy by producing and selling the annual charity calendar to benefit E. H. Little Library. The enthusiasm carried over through Rush as the Hoddy House brought together thirteen strong, tightly-knit pledges. Rush also produced the camaraderie on which the brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon pride themselves. The brothers could be seen together all around campus from tailgating before football games to selling calendars through the dormitories of Davidson College. The closeness of the members of SAE was apparent in all of their social events and brotherhoods.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity did not limit its efforts exclusively to social events. Instead it spent countless hours giving back to the community through events such as the Crop Lunch, Run Under the Stars, the Bike-a-Thon for the Ada Jenkins Center, and Halloween at the YMCA. Finally, through the tireless work of the brothers during their summer break and early on during the school year, the Charity Calendar, the fraternity's largest service project, was once again a success, adding to the endowed book fund for E. H. Little Library.

Socially, the Hoddy House once again contributed to much fun on and off Patterson Court. SAE parties featured such bands as Second Hand Jive, Baaba Seth, Deep Banana Blackout, The Hill, The Campaign, and the Frogmoors. Sigma Alpha Epsilon also sponsored the biggest band party of fall Rush with the Blue Dogs. Finally, Tacky Party, our biggest party of the fall, brought the students of Davidson College out for a night of Hoddiness dressed in their "best." The spring semester saw the return of the popular 80's Prom Party, Spring Frolics, and the annual alumni golf tournament. Thanks to the efforts of current brothers and the members before us, we were able to continue the tradition of Hoddy Pride. We would like to thank all of our alumni for their generous support, caring, and contributions. Finally, the efforts of Stephen Lilly, James Tayberry, Angus Billy, and Haugh D. Balls are recognized for they contributed greatly to the success of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Warner Hall

The women of Warner Hall had an awesome year yet again! We participated in service projects and enjoyed social functions. But most excitingly, Warner Hall welcomed a new cook to the house, Candice. The fall got off to a great start with Crush Party and Oyster Roast. Also, members actively participated in the Crop Walk in November to raise money for hunger awareness. In December the house sponsored a small child. Members of the house bought her new toys and clothes in order to give her a Merry Christmas. In addition to our service projects in the fall, Warner Hall hosted its first annual Madonnarama, an occasion to wear lovely 80's attire. Our semi-formal, Bungle in the Jungle, was a hit in November, and everyone loved the house decorated with wild, exotic animals.

The house also joined in our "Goal GPA" program. Each member set a standard for themselves, and if they achieved it, they were awarded with new Warner Hall bumper stickers!

Wappa-Happas welcomed their new members in January at Self-Selection. Fifty freshwomen joined our house, so Warner Hall celebrated in style with champagne, chocolate sauce and easy cheese.

Big Sis/Little Sis week helped to further bond the house together with fun parties and surprises. The Spring Formal was in Winston-Salem's Millenium Center. In April, we hosted our first Draft-A-Date which included mud, waterguns and lots of noodles. Warner Hall wrapped up the year with Patio Party and sent the class of 1999 off with the Senior Roast.

Kappa Sigma

1998-99 was once again an exciting year for the fine gentlemen affectionately known as the Squids. The scarlet, green, and white finally made its way to the upstairs walls thanks to the backbreaking paint work of several ambitious brothers, and our back wall was fixed after a mere 2 years and 20 work orders.

Kappa Sig continued to show its pension for nakedness, as Self-Selection night seemed to have no end. Mrs. Hollis added to the grease intake of the brothers, though Turner House tried to turn us into herbivores for the entire first semester. We also filled our quota for short pledges, bad grades in economics, and great success on the backyard basketball court. Homeruns for Habitat was a big winner this year, and we have gone corporate in order to make our 10th and final MADD Run the best ever.

There were parties, foodfights, and an occasional appearance by alumni. The welcoming of 18 new brothers this spring only added to the exceptional character of Kappa Sig. So now the seniors leave the aquarium under great protest (in other words, very few job offers), but in very capable hands... kicking it Sigma-style as always. A to B!!

Kappa Alpha

Fall of 1998 proved to be an unprecedented year for the Grand Old Order of the South. For the first time in many years, KA avoided probation and was able to continue the fall with no restrictions. This catalyst proved to be all that the brothers of KA needed. After First Night Down, KA took control of Monday nights, engaging in games of Beirut and pool on our newly acquired table. Trying to stop us was analogous to shooting a BB at a freight train. Get your button downs, SUVs and Croakies, because the frat dogs are back in full effect.

We still remained leaders in the Davidson community through increased participation in such things as community service projects, soccer, tennis, football, golf, wrestling, and rugby teams, student publications such as the Davidsonian and the Libertas, and the Honor Council. Also, we held another KArNival in the spring to help our chapter charity, the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Lastly, our parents' weekend and faculty barbecues were great successes.

We had a truly fantastic semester. Besides our infamous late night jams, events such as Hurricane Hugo, Homecoming with Dean Dollar, Space Jam with The Brotherhood, and the first and second ever Beirut tournaments stunned the student body. Yes, we are that cool.

On a serious note, we would like to list some of our accomplishments. As a house, versus foreign opponents, we hold a .963 winning percentage in Beirut, led by a couple seniors from Philly. Our days of wearing soccer cleats and backwards hats and sitting on the walls at parties are over. We have moved the couches into the house to sit on at parties. Please note the changes. Our house GPA of 0.4 was the highest among KA chapters on campus. With the addition of our pool table, we are now involved in a gambling ring at the pub, which has proved very lucrative. We have decided to invest the money in building a replica of the Rusk porch so that we can continue throwing bottles.

Turner House

This year was a momentous one in the history of Patterson Court as Turner House was established. After a semester of hard work the spring before, this fall, Turner House had its debut on the Court. In the spring of 1998, a group of Davidson women got together with the idea to start a new women's eating house. With a membership of 79 girls in the fall, Turner House is small, yet rapidly growing. Although our house was under construction most of the fall, Turner girls pulled together in a remarkable show of spirit and enthusiasm to establish ourselves on the court. The first semester was a memorable one as we established new traditions and formed lasting friendships.

We kicked off fall semester by falling into the Bermuda Triangle- a night that brought the girls together like non had before. The stars came out for our fall semi-formal, Hollywood Nights. Girls donned boas, long black gloves, and sunglasses to dance the night away in a tent under the stars. At last the big day arrived. On November 7, 1998, construction on the house was completed and the celebration was on! Girls gathered at the house Saturday afternoon for a ribbon cutting ceremony with our namesake, Katherin Turner, her family and friends, and Davidson faculty and administration. But the party did not end here... as the sun went down, we were just getting started. The whole campus was invited to come down to our new "pad" and christen the house for the Grad Opening Event. From then on, Turner girls were busy preparing the house and painting out tables, plus organizing the first annual Winter Wonderland Carnival held at Ada Jenkins. Before the semester was over, we practiced our dance moves as we learned to swing dance at My Tie.

Our first self-selection was a blast, as we welcomed our newest members to the house. Our freshmen, or "tadpoles" as we affectionately called them, were literally swimming through the house that evening. For our spring semi-formal, all our fantasies came true with Once Upon a Time as we headed up to our castle on the hill. This was followed up by Big Sis/Lil Sis and more Turner bonding. Of course, Prince Charming Austin Rios was always on hand to give the Turner girls a "royally" good time! The Senior Formal in Charlotte was an elegant affair, complete with the lively music of The Maxx, and before the semester was over, we took one last chance to party at Spring Fling. For this event, we headed outdoors for an afternoon of croquet and bocce ball in the sun.

All in all, Turner's first year at Davidson was an absolute success!

Sophomores say "cheese" before Turner's semi-formal.

Rusk House

This year has been, once again, nothing short of fabulous for the Ruskies. As usual we started off the year in style with our annual "Welcome Back" late night. We had our first chance to really meet some freshmen as we hosted a tailgate party before the first nighttime football game. All the girls had a great time mingling with the freshmen and cheering on the team. Lamoureux and Lindsay managed to keep Destination unknown a secret, taking us first to a fun park for a crack at go-carts, putt-putt, and batting cages. Then it was back to the quarry for a night of hotdogs, s'mores, and beer. Even though the band didn't show, we still managed to get crazy... wasn't out bus driver such a good sport? Cheeseburger in Paradise allowed us to take a break mid-week and relax. Policeman's Brawl was definitely one of the best ever. Ruskies rounded themselves up some dates and danced the night away with a bunch of excited freshmen, to the tunes of Peace and Love. In addition to all this fun, our social chairs kept us busy with a host of other late nights and co-sponsored parties.

Although our social calendars were full, we still found plenty of time to volunteer. Once again, we got together with the Kappa Sigs for the 11th annual Homeruns for Habitat. After twelve hours and 100 innings of softball, we were tired, but proud of our efforts. We also co-sponsored Run Under the Stars with the rest of Patterson Court. From volunteering at Ada Jenkins to helping put together Christmas boxes for underprivileged children, every Ruskie played an important role.

Before the end of first semester, everyone enjoyed the last chance to party with friends at Christmas Cocktails. Second semester was kicked off with our favorite night, Self-Selection! The celebrating began much earlier, however, when we pulled the newest members of our herd out of bed to come down for breakfast at the house. While it was a long day after that 6am start, the new Ruskies showed that they were ready to party with the rest of the herd, rallying for the REAL celebration that night. Everyone had a fabulous time, even if they did get a bit wet!

Once we recuperated from Self-Selection, our social calendars heated back up with Heaven and Hell, where we discovered that we angelic Ruskies have a little bit of devil in us! Big Sis/Lil Sis was a blast as always, and as our Rusk families grew, we got to show off unique undergarments provided by our little sisters. Formal is always a good time, when we leave good old Patterson Court and invade the real world, showing them what it really means to party. Longneck Redneck gave us a good chance to enjoy the spring weather cowboy-style as we presented our Favorite cowboy, Chris Tuttle, with the traditional belt buckle. Finally, Senior Roast was a wonderful way for us, through laughter and a few tears, to send the seniors on their way, and close out our 22nd year.

Phi Gamma Delta

If there was off-campus fun to be had this year, it was to be found at the Phi Gam house tucked away on Beaty Street. True to past years, the Phi Gam Tram successfully shuttled herds of raving lunatics, or rather "partygoers," to and from the parties held at the house whether it was the Rave or the infamous Fiji Islander.

This year, Fiji stood out as the intellectual powerhouse of Patterson Court, being awarded for best scholarship at the Fall Convocation. This aspect is, of course, simply a front for the maniacal partying souls contained deep within, seen only on rare occasions known as weekends.

Service continued to be a valued component of Fiji, as we worked closely with the Ada Jenkins Center throughout the year. These service projects provided an excellent opportunity to assist the Davidson community and a great excuse to wake up extremely early on Saturday mornings.

Football

Seven games has often been considered an unreachable goal in light of the caliber of the opposition Davidson faces. Especially after last year's disappointing 3-8 record, winning anything close to eight games seemed an awfully unrealistic goal. But nonetheless, the Cats turned their ears away from the critics and fought toward the most celebrated season in Davidson football history. With this record-breaking 8-2 season, Head Coach Tim Landis has begun to etch his name in the stone of Davidson's winningest coaches.

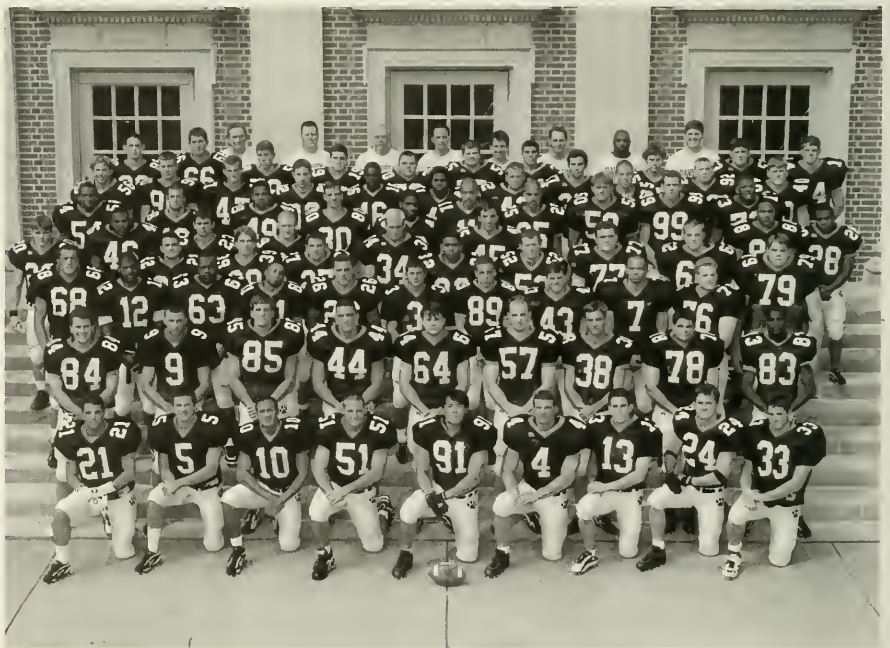

Two new coaches, Offensive Coordinator Al Logan and Secondary and Strength Coach Morris Starr, brought in new systems—an extremely difficult offensive system and an extremely complex defensive system. The season was nothing less than exhilarating: records were broken and individual accomplishments abounded. Tommy Dugan quarterbacked the team in the new offense and in the process became the all-time leader in total yardage with 6,078 yards. Sophomore Eric Ferguson, 'Fergi', remained the steadfast horse at fullback and led the team in rushing for the second consecutive year. Jerry Saunders, Matt Berry and Jamel Wynn had valuable contributions to the offensive line.

The defense made the season a truly "GR8 One." Head defensive coach Trip Merritt anchored the crew with his prowess, and Senior safety Clif Henry finished the season with seven interceptions. He ended first in the nation and was nominated to participate in the NCAA Division I-AA Independents All-Star football game. Wes Thorton was also an invaluable asset to the defensive line. The Cats finished second nationally among Division I-AA teams in scoring defense with 10.4 points per game; Davidson ranked fourth in total defense with 231.9 yards per game. Senior Captains Chris Fredericks and Tom Ting helped the Ends Andre Carelock and Wes "Stuuuuu" Jones stop the outside run. Along with Clif Henry, sophomore nose guard Bo Henderson was selected to play in the NCAA All-Star game. The 1998 Davidson Wildcats look to break this year's record, for they feel they have pushed themselves to being part of a winning system.

The 1998 men's soccer season began in difficult fashion. The Wildcats seemed to have some trouble working as a team in the early season, and opened up with a 1-13 record. At this point, they traveled to conference rival Furman, who happened to be ranked twelfth in the nation. The Paladins rattled off more than double the amount of shots that the Wildcats could manage. But with 14 minutes remaining in the game, junior striker Andrew Holbrook scored the only goal of the contest. The 1-0 victory over Furman began a small comeback for Davidson. They finished 5-16 overall and had a respectable 4-4 Southern Conference record. Unfortunately, they were knocked out of the conference tournament in the first round when they lost to the College of Charleston by a score of 5-2.

Throughout the season, Davidson faced incredible competition. In addition to Furman, the Wildcats played three other nationally ranked opponents: UCLA, the preseason number one, South Carolina, and Wake Forest. Although Davidson did not emerge victorious in these contests, the experience gained by the players will undoubtedly help them next year.

The Wildcats are returning seven starters. This year's points leader, David Buehler, and co-assists leader, Dane Erickson, will be in the midfield. The defense will be anchored by team MVP Lawrence Cann and Patrick Miller, who was a first team all Southern Conference selection last year. The only question for the Wildcats is in the keeper position. Both goalies from this year's squad, Marshall Tyler and Brad Stroble are seniors. Nevertheless, there are high expectations for next year.

Women's Soccer

It was a streaky season for the women's soccer team. They opened the season win-less in the first five games before rattling off five wins in a row. Unfortunately, that streak was followed by another five game skid. Throughout the up and down season, the girls had to overcome several injuries to key players. They were able to finish third in the Southern Conference with a 5-3 record, and completed the season 7-13 overall.

Injuries hampered the Wildcats all season long. Senior co-captain Rhina Roberts played only seven games due to an injured leg. Down the stretch, team MVP Kelly Rennick and junior Kate McKnight both suffered ankle injuries. In addition, freshmen standouts Carolyn Stumpf and Natalie Cox had to deal with nagging injuries.

Although the team was unable to advance past the first round of the Southern Conference tournament, several individuals had outstanding seasons. Forward Ginny Dye notched seven goals to push her career total to 22. Dye received second team all conference recognition for her efforts. MVP Rennick made a switch from mid-field to defense this year where she was an outstanding presence. Her play earned her a spot on the first team all conference.

Next year the Wildcats will have a strong nucleus of experienced players returning.

Field Hockey

The field hockey team emerged victorious in four of its final six games to salvage their season. They ended with a 6-13 overall record, but more importantly, they played extremely well in the Deep South tournament.

In the first of the three games, Davidson faced Quinnipiac. With the game tied at one goal apiece, junior Kate Schoening scored the winning goal less than two minutes before the game ended. The second game was less fortunate for the Wildcats. They fell 2-0 to Appalachian State, a team they had beat earlier that week. But the team bounced back in their third match against Catawba. In this high scoring affair, sophomore Jennie Gold provided the winning goal in overtime.

For their achievements in the tournament, four individuals were named to the all tournament team: senior co-captain Lowell Rayburn, team MVP Kim Ceci, junior Shana Byers and junior Nancy Livingston.

SWIMMING AND DIVING

The men's swimming team ended the regular season with one of their best dual records ever at 6-7. They were able to carry their success into the post-season as well. They finished second at Southern States Championships to newcomer Western Illinois. Five members were selected for the All Southern States team: juniors Scott Harper and Terry Dolch, sophomores Kurt Hirsekorn and Sam Kuykendall, and freshman Graham Gravely. At ECAC, the men placed eighth in the field.

The women had an equally successful season and took the Southern States title for the third consecutive year. Four swimmers were named to the All Southern States team: junior Mary Shell Broshe, freshmen Starr Daniell, Heidi Hester and Beth Summerlin. The women notched ninth place at the ECAC.

Mama Said Knock You Out...

Men's Basketball

The 1998-1999 season was the one that got away. And it seems all that was missing were the "finishing touches" as Head Coach Bob McKillop said. Being able to finish the game, injuries and motivation proved to be the team's biggest adversaries.

This team had the players with four of last year's five starters returning and, of course, the sixth man Ben Ebong. As usual, the rest of McKillop's bench was strong, and as it turned out, they had to be.

Ebong's back went out and Ali Ton sustained multiple injuries. Juniors Stephen Marshall and Davor Halbauer had valuable contributions to the scoreboard and their teammates, but inconsistencies especially on Halbauer's part led to a roller-coaster scoresheet and losses to teams that the team should have easily beaten.

The winner of the John M. Belk Most Valuable Player Award this year was Landry Kosmalski, who truly demonstrated his worth with multiple twenty-plus games, and who was the undeniable leader in points and rebounds over the entire season.

Davidson faced worthy opponents early in the season when they fell to Duke's Blue Devils 61-94 in November, losing by less than highly-ranked ACC teams would later in the season. At home in Belk Arena, the Wildcats played the new SoCon challengers, the College of Charleston Cougars, in front of a sold-out crowd. The close game led to the hype of second-round action between Davidson and Charleston in the Southern Conference. However, these hopes were dashed when Davidson lost first round in the Southern Conference to Western Carolina's Catamounts.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The women's basketball team flourished under the leadership and experience of its three seniors-- Jamie Brown, Kerry Brown and Jessica Montrella. They were the top three rebounders on the team, and were three of the top four scorers. As a result, they propelled the team to eighteen wins, tying the record they had established last year. More importantly though, they helped lead the women's basketball team to the finals of the Southern Conference Tournament for the first time in Davidson's history.

The overall record of 18-10 and the conference mark of 13-8 gave the Wildcats the fourth seeds going into the tournament. Competition was tight all year long; the top four teams were separated by only three games. The women began the tournament with a game against fifth seeded Furman, who they easily disposed of 62-56. The next round brought on the toughest challenge for the Wildcats, the first seeded UNC Greensboro. The game was very physical. Montrella tore her ACL and MCL, and Jamie Brown and Katy Kamp both fouled out in the second half. Down by four with fourteen seconds left and only two starters on the floor, the situation looked grim. Heroically, Kerry Brown stepped up and hit a three off the glass. UNC Greensboro lost control of the ball on ensuing play, and Kerry Brown was there to gather the ball. She dished it to an open Jessica Heath in the post who proceeded to make the game-winning jumper as the buzzer sounded.

Although they lost the championship game to Appalachian State, the Wildcats still managed to set a precedent of excellence for the following teams.

Women's Tennis

Experience leads the way in tough season

The 1999 women's tennis team had high expectations for the year. Due to a change in post-season format, the winner of the Southern Conference tournament automatically receives a bid to the NCAA tournament. Unfortunately for the Wildcats, they lost a hard-fought match in the first round.

Their 8-8 overall record and 5-4 Southern Conference mark earned them the fifth seed in the tournament. They faced fourth-seeded College of Charleston in the opening round. After the singles matches, the wWildcats found themselves in a bad spot, down four matches to two. But the doubles teams battled back. Freshman Forbes Thompson combined with senior Kirstyn Leuner to win the #3 doubles slot. In addition, seniors Amber Bradford and co-captain Dana Casner were victorious in the #1 doubles position. Sadly, the #2 doubles team was unable to prevail in a very competitive match.

You have made great strides in Life's struggle to balance what you've learned with who you are and seek to become. Rather than reaching a final goal, you recognize it as a journey, and we are very proud of the path you are taking.

Kirstyn,

Four years and two knees later
 We can look back and smile--

You played hard and
 we loved being there;
 Your scholarly endeavors
 have been outstanding;
 You have challenged your mind
 to think in new ways, explore great literature and talk compassionately
 about authors and their works;
 You found time to stop
 and count the birds,
 and explore new caves;
 You made friends and navigated D.C.
 (without a compass);
 You played Tull on the Flute and painted new vistas--

Thank you for all that you are and for the opportunity to see the world through your eyes.
 We are very proud of you!
 Love, Mom, Dad, and Kyle

A friend

Firstly, my heartfelt thanks to William Brown for smoothing budget wrinkles and minor details before they became major issues. This book would also not have been possible without the support of Carolyn Henderson, whose advice I depend on. Mike VanHecke, I owe you a good bottle of scotch for your masterful help with the cover design, layout concept and taking my work so seriously. Kudos to everyone who works in the College Union who helped me in a myriad of ways, especially to Gina Nossel, Mary Lib Richards and Verdie Barringer for their encouragement. Thank you, Derek, for letting me lean on you. Finally, I was fortunate enough to have a wonderful staff that persevered through the computer's three month absence, a printer with more personality than a Furby, and a lack of photography to independently produce quality pages.

Throughout the course of this year, I have become increasingly aware of the different paths we each choose, and the paths that are sometimes chosen for us. For everyone involved with this book, their paths led them to Davidson. As we grow through our four years in this quiet town in North Carolina, we are shaping the paths of our futures and growing beyond the instruction we receive in the classroom. Sometimes I see my path straight ahead, other times my vision blurs with the confusion of youth, naivete and over-involvement. I have learned that the best things and the times I feel the most alive are usually behind an unexpected bend in the road.

I did not know until this fall that I had been named Editor-In-Chief of this publication. And although it had moments of hellaciousness, the pride I feel for these pages and the lessons they have taught me will last beyond my remembrances of days spent in a stuffy office with a freeze-happy computer and a fickle printer. In the end, I trust in the higher power that guides my life and offer this book to you with the knowledge that I have done my best. It is impossible to encapsulate even one year in the life of Davidson College into bound pages, but take from this book the spirit of this community wherever your path leads.
